Newborn / Maternity Photographer: In Provo, a New Baby Always Means a Newborn Session

THE PROBLEM

Newborn / Maternity Photographer: Why Traditional Marketing Fails

The Booking Window Is Extremely Narrow

Newborn sessions need to happen within the first 2 weeks of birth — ideally pre-booked during pregnancy. If you're not in front of expectant mothers during their second trimester, you've missed the booking window entirely.

Your Portfolio Gets Shared Without Your Name

New parents share their newborn photos with everyone — family, friends, social media, Christmas cards. But they rarely remember to credit the photographer. Ambassador programs create the formal attribution that turns shares into referrals.

Market Feels Saturated With Photographers

Every photographer seems to offer newborn sessions. Standing out requires community trust and word-of-mouth — not just a beautiful portfolio. 'She photographed my baby and I cried happy tears' converts instantly.
